Photographic Rights and Reproduction Services

Publication Rights and Permission Fees

Non-commercial use is defined as that which is clearly grounded in not-for-profit or scholarly activities, such as monographs, theses, dissertations, family histories, public exhibitions, personal study needs, etc.

Commercial use allows the reproduction to be used for personal or corporate gain. Commercial use is limited in scope and duration. Uses in high exposure or technologically advanced media such as newspapers, magazines, advertisements, credit cards, television, calendars or digital formats, or those uses that are deemed to be of public relations use to the BCHS are negotiated on a case-by-case basis.

All prices are quoted on a per image basis.

The BCHS grants non-exclusive rights for a one-time, one-medium use only.

For more detail about our policies, please see "Terms and Conditions for Print Publication" at:
